FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

New York Stock Market.

New York, July 24.—The day opened at the stock exchange with a regular rush to sell and prices declined anywhere from 1/4 to 3/8 per cent. The fact that quotations in London were above New York parity of Saturday's closing, had no effect because the foreign orders were mainly to sell. It was evident that the bears were determined to make the most of the banking and commercial failures both at home and abroad. In many instances the figures touched were the lowest for years past. There were sharp rallies on purchases to cover short contracts, and around delivery hour a number of stocks had not only recovered decline but were 1/4 to 2 per cent. above Saturday's closing. Advances from the West and from Milwaukee that affairs in financial circles had quieted down, had the effect of stimulating purchases. Just previous to the close, however, the bears made another dash against the list and prices yielded quickly under pressure.

The heaviness of Atchison was a conspicuous feature throughout the afternoon. This stock sold at the lowest price touched since the reorganization of the property some years ago. Missouri Pacific, Rhode Island, and Burlington and Quincy were quoted lower than for years past. About the only encouraging feature was the buying for both small and large investors, who pay in full for their purchases. The movement, however, up to the present has been insufficient to offset the aggressive policy of the bear party. The transactions aggregated 284,000 shares, of which 27,000 were unlisted. Speculation left off weak in tone. Sub-treasury balances: Coin, $66,592,000; currency, $13,287,000.

Money on call easy, ranging from 3 to 6, closing offered at 3. Prime mercantile paper, 8@12. Sterling exchange dull. Post rates, 483@485. Commercial bills, 480@483 1/2. Government bonds steady. State bonds dull. Railroad bonds lower. Sales of silver at the stock exchange to-day were 10,000 ounces at 69 1/2.

Charged With Handling Green Goods.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 24.—A man named Shaffer and one son were arrested here this morning, charged with handling green goods. Another son of Shaffer's succeeded in eluding the police, and escaped with, as is alleged, $4,000 in green goods on his person. The man arrested had about $200 in good money and letters signed by C. C. Wilson, of Cincinnati. Chief of Police Dietrich, of Cincinnati, has been notified. The men arrived here Saturday at 5 p. m. from Cincinnati. Shaffer is from Ohio, but his sons reside in this county. The only evidence against the men is the letters.

District Conference.

The Roanoke district conference of the M. E. Church, South, will meet at Christiansburg on Tuesday, August 8. The delegates selected by Trinity Church, this city, Rev. C. S. Stanton pastor, are as follows: Rev. L. B. Atkins, G. L. Stevens, J. B. Andrews, W. A. Pattie, J. M. Gambill, Judge A. E. King and W. M. Saunders. The opening sermon will be preached by Rev. W. L. Dolly, of Backsburg. Rev. C. S. Stanton will preach at Christiansburg the Sunday after the opening of the conference.

A Sad Death.

One of the saddest deaths that has ever occurred in this vicinity was that of Miss Annie Robertson, which took place at the residence of Mr. Shuff at Salem, where she was boarding. Miss Robertson was the only daughter of Dr. Edward Robertson, of Gladys, Campbell county, and was a beautiful and accomplished member of Bedford county society. The remains were shipped yesterday on train No. 4 to Lynchburg for burial.

Hustings Court.

In the Hustings Court yesterday the question of additional sureties on the bond of W. F. Patterson to Didier & Vaughan was brought up. The bond is for $26,000 and the question is continued. The matter of ordering a local option election is continued until to-day.

Men Who Paint Rocks.

This is the season when those artists known to their fellow craftsmen as "rock daubers" make tracks for the mountains. Upward of 600 of them bade this town goodby during the past 10 days. They will not return until October is past. They are the persons who scale the loftiest peaks with the courage and agility of a chamois hunter to mark in mammoth letters on the faces of rocks the apocryphal merits of "Bingo's bergamot pills," "Dumfudgin's never-get-fat-anymore elixir" and many other like nostrums.

They are employed by advertising concerns in the metropolis and are hired for from three to five months, according to the climatic conditions of the latitudes they are sent to. Those sent south sometimes remain on the road longer than five months. They travel in couples. The route of each pair is laid out before the start, and each couple carries a copy with them. They are paid from $18 to $25 a week. In addition to their pay each man is allowed $10 a week for board.

Their employers pay their traveling expenses—that is, railroad fares and wagon hire. Each couple starts out with $25 in cash with which to pay wagon hire and pay board. To encourage them to drive close bargains for rigs each firm of employers offers a prize of from $100 to $150 to the brace of "daubers" whose bills for wagon hire foot up the least at the end of the season. Statements of expenditures, with vouchers, must be sent to their bosses once a week. Sometimes these nomadic sign painters do not ride on a railroad for weeks. Every year they have to seek routes in wilder regions.—New York Advertiser.

A Word About the Russet Shoes.

A fashion writer in a morning contemporary asks:

"What is the attraction which brown leather boots seem to possess for both men and women, young and old? This year they have made their appearance not only considerably earlier than usual, but also in larger numbers than ever before. Some declare that they are more comfortable, but experience hardly bears out that impression. A brown boot can never be so pliable and so easy as one of black leather, moreover, the brown boot is distinctly less becoming than the black."

The writer of this must have had a singular experience with brown leather. The russet shoes are worn by most people because they are softer and more pliable, and above all because the pores of the leather are not tightly closed as they are in patent leather, and in all black leather that is subjected to polish blocking. The difference in comfort in hot weather between a ventilating russet shoe and impervious patent leather is quickly obvious when a change is made from one to the other. The summer dress of Americans has tended to comfort in all respects during the last few years, and no two innovations have added more to a mitigation of hot weather discomfort than the brown shoe and the unstarched fine cotton shirts for gentlemen.—New York World.

Part of a Talk With Edwin Booth.

"Did anybody ever tell you you looked like Edgar A. Poe?" I asked. "No," replied Booth, "but the other day in passing up Broadway I was attracted by a portrait in a window which I took for mine, but which was Mr. Poe's. I am a great admirer of him. By the way, do you know that he was a grandson of Benedict Arnold?"

"Well, he was, or at least he claimed to be. In a conversation between Poe and Tom Placide, an old actor, Poe asserted that his mother, whose maiden name was Arnold, was the illegitimate daughter of Benedict."

"But Poe was greatly given to romancing about himself," I explained.

"But would a man romance in that way about himself?"

"Most men would not, but Mr. Poe would."—Utica Observer.

The Queen's Steeds.

Some people were rather startled the other day at the apparition of a team of the queen's cream colored horses trotting soberly down Queen's Gate, London. They were of course being exercised in view of the ceremony at the Imperial institute. Being so seldom occupied in any other work than the cannibalistic one of "eating their heads off," they are inclined to wax fat and kick. The fore legs of these wonderful steeds are tethered in the stables as they are inclined to be restive, and in order to break them in for the ordeal of a ceremony such as that at the opening of the Imperial institute a military band plays in the stables several times previously to accustom them to the blare of brass and the rattle of drums.—London Letter.

Ruined by Face Improvers.

A young widow, who had been endeavoring to add artificially to her charms of person, is the complainant in an interesting case which will be before the law courts before long. She visited a well known west end beautifier who deals in lotions and powder warranted to improve the complexion, but after a very brief trial was compelled to call in a physician. The latter after hearing the facts and analyzing the stuffs she had been using declared that she was being slowly poisoned by a lotion. The lady is about to sue for damages.—Sheffield Telegraph.

A Quarrel Between Kings.

According to a foreign correspondent Emperor William almost quarreled with King Humbert because the latter would not call out the Italian troops at midnight with a view to ascertaining their discipline. The emperor insisted, the king protested, and it was not until Queen Marguerite explained that such a proceeding would arouse the city and alarm the pope—the bersagliers being quartered under the walls of the Vatican—that the kaiser renounced his purpose and went to bed in very ill humor.
